The King of Holland celebrated his seventieth birthday yesterday. He ascended the throne in 1819. Throughout the country there are general signs of rejoicing. In the morning 2,000 school children met under the balcony of the palace, and sang national songs. The King. Queen, and Princess Wilhelmine were loudly cheered on their appearance. The town was decorated throughout in a very beautiful manner with arches, trophies, and flags. A great review was held, and large quantities of bread and meat have been given for distribution among the poor. The King has been presented with an address of congratulation, accompanied by a splendidlybound Bible from Schevening. The anniversary will be celebrated at Amsterdam on the occasion of the annual visit of the Royal Family. Queen Victoria and several other Severeigns have sent congratulatory telegrams to the King. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Davily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical services this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extense. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography disptays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore—characterized Chinese publications. NGLISH AND CHINESE THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express, the numerous ob- jects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a yest economy of space, schieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have herectofore—sharac- terized Chinese publications. To the illustrate the vast scope of the work following facts are submitted for consideration: Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's. English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000. English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese charac- ters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely re- quires examples to display the various appli- cations and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. ENGLISH AND CHINES E DICTIONARY. WITH THE PUNNI AND MANDARIM PRONVICIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hangkong. For comprehensiveness and precitical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express, the numerous ob- jects in machinery, photography, talegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming curerises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography disptays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore—charac- terra. Again, despire all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the words, and upwards of 600.000 Chinese charac- terra. Again, despire all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the word in the size of the supplications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly sequainted. For practical purposes the arrangement of the general are proposes, the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages canables a complete, that a reference to its pages canables accented in England and interes who numerate communicate effectivel	THE Undersigned having been appointed Agents for the above Company, are prepared to GRANT POLICIES against FIRE AND LIFE at Current Rates.
